Run: 1377
Hares: WhoreDa

Date: 23 June 2017
Venue: Leeming

THE RUN

It was a remarkably cold night; most of the walkers were rugged up, while the runners seem to get by with just a hint of clothing. Until they return and their half covered bodies shiver and shake and finally get wrapped too.

The Hare WhoreDa was called upon to give instructions for the run:

“all on chalk, all on the right, even if there is a footpath on the left (there was a bit of confusion about that later) not always under a light and by the way it’s a long run! It will take at least an hour” (it took the Hare three hours to set it). “The last 100 yards are on the outward trail” heads turned, how long is that?

Well, here is a quick answer:

Q:How many meters are in 100 yards?

A:Quick Answer

One hundred yards is the equivalent of 91.44 meters. Since 1 yard is the equivalent of approximately 0.914 meters, multiplying the 100 yards by 0.914 meters per yard yields the number of meters. Since 100 centimeters equals 1 meter, the measurement is also equal to 9,144 centimeters

( I love Google ☺ )

It turned out to be not quite on hour,
The well marked trail took us through the streets of Leeming and eventually to the drink stop (Port and Lemonade or Guinness or both) and then we found the 100 yards which took us back to the park.

THE CIRCLE

WhoreDa and Doggy Do were busy cooking burgers and sausages and onion and as no one likes to eat cold food, especially on a cold winter's night, grub was served before the Circle.

The GM, back from his stint in Bali, called for a Circle, the munching hashers obeyed.
Spackle reported for the runners: he was lost for words, considering trail was set by a walker not too bad, but a late drink stop, rated it a 9.5
Blowfly for the walkers: measured it at 5.05 km and liked every bit of the way.
