Run: 1253 – Xmas Run

Date: 19th December 2014

Hare: Radar

Venue: 11 Hoya Court, Thornlie

THE RUN

Well, everyone turned up intending to enjoy the evening come what may. Dressed up to the nines, they were - elves, fairies and a roly-poly Santa. Tutus, tights and testicles - what a motley lot, and, to cap it all, the welcome return of our long lost – Willi-Willi and the creator of the Radar phenomenon. 11 Hoya Court was bedecked with lights a-twinkling and a-flashing in psychedelic splendour. Pity it was still daylight but there was a long night ahead.

There's always great encouragement to do the whole run with the announcement of a drink stop. I, for one, might have cited broken head and hand as an excuse to put the feet up had it not been for the enticement of a free glass of bubbles. So it was that everyone set off on the run – walking wounded Cookie and Mountain Hawk included. Not to be outdone, Dead Squid soon took a tumble on some dry sand and made a nice hole in his leg. You get more sympathy if your injuries are on display, or so our dear friend Earache always seemed to think.

Lovely, balmy evening it was this week - such a change from the freezing Antarctic gale at Deepwater Point. Runners and walkers crossed paths at regular intervals – always a sign of a well-set trail. Mumblings of “where's the drink stop?” were soon to be heard from Slugger, weighed down as she was by the burden of the dummy shorts. She was soon joined by a chorus of similar plaintive cries from the walkers, all soon to slake their thirst at the table of manna in preparation for the rites to follow.

The Circle: “Form a circle!”

GM Hogshit decided there was no need to call a run scorer and asked the general gathering what they thought of the run. Great confusion ensued so the run gets the usual score of 9.75, drink stop notwithstanding.

LTNS:

Arseabout, Radar of ages past, Willi-Willi, Rambling, Little Prick, Head Case, Suka.
