PREAMBLE

For 16 or so of our regulars the Easter weekend was passed very pleasantly at the country estate of Hogshit and Slugger. Some of us camped and some were lucky enough to be accommodated inside the mansion. Food was plentiful and the company very congenial. We had no electronic entertainment and, perhaps as a result, we had a wonderful time listening to one another's poems and joining in songs of years past, some of which must have been dredged up from the deepest recesses of memory - two evenings of camaraderie reminiscent of days of yore. Thank you to Hogshit and Slugger for the venue and to our fellow campers for a very enjoyable weekend.

THE RUN

Neil Hawkins Park is a place we often take overseas visitors to because the kangaroos emerge from the bushes in the twilight and are so tame you can feed them by hand. We still manage to go round in circles finding the place, though. Anyway, find it we did, along with all the other stalwarts who ignored the possibility of a downpour and assembled for the first Friday hash for two weeks.

Part of the run took us through the streets of Joondalup, past the pubs and restaurants with aromas of Indian and Italian cuisine assailing our senses. Bemused stares from diners, as always, especially when the cries of the pack drew attention to our activities. Past the pubs we ran without stopping. That's sure to be mentioned in the circle. The residential areas of Joondalup are very dark and very, very quiet. Several times we were asked what was going on and, even with torches we had to go back and forth a few times to find the trail. Sir Fumbles warned us that it's a very big park and just heading in the right direction might lead us up a gum tree. Ballwinkle did a sterling job of checking towards the end of the run and it was Tightarse who finally found the 'on in' for the walkers. It's a lovely area for a run, especially in the daytime when we can see all the 'nature'.

THE CIRCLE

Stand-in GM Radar called in the hares and asked Mouth Organ to be a run critic. Mouth Organ gave it some thought and declared it a 'funny' run (made me laugh) – “couple here, couple there”. RA Suka remarked on it taking us past all the pubs and restaurants with their delicious aromas and someone told Pacemaker that the residents of Joondalup don't want to hear about HHH. That was it, really. No final score but everyone was happy to accept Shadow's unsolicited assessment that it was an excellent - BGR

LTNS

Cow Pat, Blow Fly, Hi Beam, Shadow

VISITORS

Where's The Beef, visiting for the second time

BIRTHDAY

Stand-in GM Radar celebrates hers this week. She donned the hat and announced that she would be treating us to a cake and a bottle of Amarillo

CHARGES

GM's call for charges was met initially with an unenthusiastic response - she charged Little Prick with interposing when she can't sing, whereupon Little Prick, attempting to prove GM wrong, launched into a song – GM was proved right and the hapless Little Prick was quickly silenced - but there's always a drink as compensation
Ten Percent charged Soixante for being official enough to award medals to French returned servicemen at a recent ceremony – exalted company, indeed

Tightarse charged Puki Merah with shrinking but the charge was reversed when Puki Merah stepped out of his hole and peered down menacingly on Tightarse

Sir Fumbles then drew attention to the not-to-be forgotten Ballwrinkle, who probably outranks everyone in tallness stakes (tallness?) – you can get a down-down just for being horizontally advantaged – or anything

RTT charged Tightarse for ukulele accompaniment but failed

Mountain Hawk charged Shadow with showing off her innate sense of falsie-spotting on the run

GM charged Little Prick for her 'salve from Heaven' – “It's a miracle.”

GPS remarked that Little Prick has two tubes (as most intact females do)

Shadow walked in with her cream and appointed Cow Pat her rubbing doctor

GM confessed to having prevailed upon Sir Fumbles to use his phone on the run to find out the footie score
“Up the Eagles” but it's still a mortal sin

Meladjusted then took out his digital device and announced the footie score – he was charged by Tightarse with speaking in numbers but the charge fell on deaf ears

Mountain Hawk charged Meladjusted with employing a digital device in the circle; GM upheld the charge but Meladjusted, rooted to the spot, stood his ground and GM, stymied but pragmatic, moved on to.....

DUMMY SHORTS

Present holder GPS who, for some unfathomable reason, appears strangely attached to the awful apparel confessed to having turned down a sure thing in order to attend the Friday hash. Mad though that might have seemed, the spectre of a carry-over, looming large, was to be avoided at all costs. Suddenly, Replicar spotted a wallet on one of the eskies. “To whom belongs that there wallet?” he demanded, confidently. Sure thing, we all thought. Anyone daft enough to leave a wallet there deserves the dummy shorts. “That's no wallet, that's a stubby holder.” And so it was. And that's how it came to pass that Replicar, hero for a moment, came to inherit the shorts.

JOKERS

In the poignancy of the moment GM forgot to call for jokers and On-Sec forget to remind GM to call for jokers so we went jokerless into the night

GENERAL BUSINESS

Please pay stand-in Hash Cash Slugger for the 9th May river cruise as soon as possible. The cruise is part sponsored by the club and will cost $88 for members, $108 for visitors. Dinner, beer, wine and sparkling wine is included and there is a bar for any other drinks you might fancy. We need to start boarding around 7.15pm and it is suggested that we gather at the Lucky Shag at 6.30. Payment either by cash in an envelope with your name on it or by Direct Debit to: FHHH at Westpac – BSB 036000 Account number 615552 WITH YOUR NAME AS THE SENDER

Rottnest – last weekend in June, $95 for two nights to cover accommodation in 6 bed cottage at Thompsons Bay South and some meals. Two cottages already filled. Organise your own ferry fare and parking
