THE RUN

Cold and dark it was as we arrived at the run site. GM's pooch was in hospital so Tightarse stood in for him and Rockbottom stood in as Hash Cash, sitting on the ground under a lamp. Why we didn't go round the building for registration procedures where there were lights, tables and shelter, I know not. Anyway, we had to get on with it and we did.

Replicar had been in competition with another hash as he set the run. There were huge arrows all over the place, so Replicar compensated with lots of tiny little cute farrows. I hope they were not a reflection of his self-esteem but they did the trick and the first part of the run was set so well that runners and walkers kept bumping into one another. The second half we seemed to become a very small group but we were informed when we arrived back at the park that a lot of people had deviated from the true path and high-tailed it back to base.

You could see people stripping off one layer after another on the run as their exertions caused the blood to flow and the body to heat up. Sybil, of course, sets off wearing next to nothing from the outset – sleeveless shirt and shorts as if it's the middle of summer. She runs like the wind and doesn't feel the chill, it seems. Most of us had multiple layers of clothing plus hats, gloves and scarves – proper winter attire. We're not posers – not athletes, either, hence all the winter warmers.

THE CIRCLE

Hare Replicar's unique farrows gave rise to some comments. Dead Squid called them "sparrow farrows" but they did a good job and Horny thought the last false trail was excellent. GM agreed it was a well set, good run.

LTNS 15 Minuts and GPS

CHARGES

Where's the GM? Doggy Doo was called in as official representative, a doggy being the reason for GM's absence.

Doggy wasn't able to cock his leg, though.

GM found K9's predicament an excuse to tell his "pulling through in hospital" joke

Rock Bottom charged GPS with false pretences – he had to follow her on the run – his direction finder needed recalibration

GPS told us how, when he awoke in hospital, he reached for his tube and found it surprisingly and gratifyingly enlarged, only to realize, with disappointment, that things returned to normal when the catheter was removed

Troppo suggested it was all hot air

GPS then treated us to too much information about his bowel movements – or lack thereof

Mountain Hawk charged RA Suka with dereliction of duty, replacing the jabber jaws with a huge bags of chips which she chomped with gusto

GM appointed Horny SI Hash Music because she couldn't resist breaking into song

Little Prick was awarded the jabber jaws by a repentant RA

GM congratulated Ballwrinkle, as US representative, on the success of the USA Women's Soccer Team in the World Cup – Ballwrinkle didn't know what GM was talking about, not being a soccer aficionado, male or female

Dead Squid announced that he appreciated 15 Minuts' generosity in bringing honey to the hash and said he had enjoyed the free samples he'd been taking every week

BIRTHDAYS 15 Minuts

JOKERS Meladjusted told the one about the motorcyclist

Cookie told one about not wearing your best clothes when dating in a nursing home

White Pointer told one about a 7-year-old in Irish weather

Troppo told one about Syria and Greece and the Greek alphabet - IOU

Then Cookie told another one about a fire hose, then one about the elderly mother who lost her baby

Doggy told one about an old lady and fumbles

Tight Arse wound it up with one about the predictive psychologist

DUMMY SHORTS Whoreda nominated 15 Minuts and Sir Fumbles for numerology and Dead Squid for admitting to stealing honey – Radar nominated Troppo for using technology in the circle but 15 Minuts dobbed herself in for going to the wrong car park and missing the run last week – her birthday week.
