THE RUN

It seems that some of our number are actually getting a life. Fewer than 30 gathered for the run last night on a pleasant evening in a good location. We even had open loos until 8pm. Good to see Ten Per Cent back in the fold. Hard One had given him permission to play out during her absence. Baby dog was there, too. All wrapped up and settled cosily in his push chair with Mummy Slugger and Daddy Hogshit in constant attention. He certainly made his presence known during the run and couldn't make up his mind whether he was feeling aggressive or sorry for himself, taking turns at barking and whining. A few of the runners tried to shut him up with soft, gentle endearments but he was not to be silenced. Back at camp he was sheltered by the pram hood and, thankfully, quiet.

You can be sure that THE BOOK is up to date because Meladjusted had been scouring its pages last week in search of errors and omissions. We're all in order now.

As usual RTT set a good run with walkers and runners keeping together fairly well. There was lots of chatting but not much calling. I think our lot has forgotten about that aspect of hashing. Just because all the neighbourhood hounds join in with Angus's howling is no reason not to call 'On On'. GPS was noted for his increasing athleticism, having been observed in the vanguard of the group at least three times.

THE CIRCLE

Well, we didn't lose anyone and someone remarked that even Rambling didn't get lost this week because we were on her home turf. The run took us past her former abode, though I wouldn't have noticed that. GM declared it a great run and that was that.

LTNS

Tightarse, Ten Percent, Head Case

No virgins, no visitors, no birthdays, no choir

CHARGES

Mountain Hawk charged Shrek with desecrating the hash horn.

Rambling charged RTT with implicit criticism for remarking that her former house looked very neat and tidy these days.

Sir Fumbles charged Cookie for a senior moment when she mistakenly sprayed her garden with Agent Orange.

Replicar charged Rambling Rose, Cow Pat and Head Case with calling whilst shortcutting.

GM charged Blow Pipe with bragging about his successful shortcutting.

'What's wrong with that?' asked Animule, whereupon Mountain Hawk charged him with aiding and abetting shortcutters.

High Beam plucked up courage and charged Shifty with no hash gear but that was reversed because Shifty pulled up her jumper and, guess what?

Shifty was Stand-in Hash Cash.

Cow Pat was stand-in, negligent RA.

RTT was last week's stand-in GM.

DUMMY SHORTS

The shorts were not available for discussion because current holder, Meladjusted, had more important matters to attend to.
