THE RUN

It is always a nice change to get to run in the bush, and Friday proved to be an excellent night for it. Not too warm, air still and the sky turning red by the setting sun.

Cookie was chosen to lead the pack of 36 hashers down the driveway, down the road, down the hill into the bush. (we got worried about the up hills) The well marked trail took us along some small paths, and scratchy flora, down into a valley and up another steep hill, where some of our hashers came to grieve by the slippery gravel, some fell, some slipped back down again, some just looked on. But a strong helping hand from our German hasher Never Hard (he has mountain experience) got us up to the path where the old railway line used to be.

I was impressed how Free Beer managed the trail with a pram; she obviously has local knowledge and found an easier way up to the railway line. The pram's occupant Max seemed content and fell asleep on the rocky paths.

Runners and walkers, who crossed path several times, arrived back home within the hour.

THE CIRCLE

The GM called for attention and the circle formed, reluctantly.

GM liked the run, Shifty enjoyed it (10/10) Rockbottom ran too many false trails, Tight Arse found himself abandoned in the bush, Spakel: no hills but mountains.

DD for the hare Puki Merah.
