Run: 1464 – Dry Run.
Hare: Animule & Big Bang

Date: 8th March 2019
Venue: Rutter Park, Wembley

The Run: A long time ago in the dim hashing past, it all started with a Big Bang, as it was to be once again. It had rained for two days and two nights and the Hare was worried if he could lay enough chalk to lead the hounds on a merry chase.

Then the booming voice of Grand Old Dasher spoke from on high to the Hare.

“Build a run, a great run, a really big run, a really big bloody run, one that could hold at least 43 hounds. You build it and they will come. Then lead the Animule(s) in two by two to the run and they will be joyous as they will have a dry run and then I will open the heavens once more and it will rain again on the completion of your task.”

Grand Old Dasher reminded the Hare,

“Remember only two by two, don’t forget to pair them for example: -

Megawatt Wanker & Gaylord Fokker, the handy ones, Hard One & Never Hard, they can’t agree, Ballwrinkle & Crusher, the hands in pocket ones, Sardar & Beau, as they are those that were lost are now found, Biggus Dickus & Franger, they are a perfect fit. You should also include the money lenders, Shifty & 10%, as well as Butteredbuns & Tightarse, who go well together, as does GPS & Radar, as well as Rambling Rose & Little Prick and don’t forget you will need a good Spackle with a Wisecrack.”*

“You could also have paired these if they both made the run, Mountainhawk & Hawkeye, Mouth Organ & Organ, Shadow & Phantom and Rockbottom & Arseabout.”

The Hare Animule, known as a master of deception in miss leading the pack, commenced the pre-run instructions (on chalk, etc blah, blah, no checks and lots of false trails). Who trusts a Hare, especially the Jedi master and his apprentice? The run was started with a Big Bang leading the pack off, then it was up and down, in and out of the false trails and checks, through several parks. It was Sardar and Beau that run further than most as they had a disagreement on which way up on their mobile phone map was and promptly blamed it for getting themselves lost. Why were they running on a live map, tut, tut!! ☹

Some hounds still fail to call the pack ON, it seems that they want the hare solely to themselves. The idea for calling the trail “ON ON” is to keep the pack together to hunt the hare’s trail. :)

The Circle: The nibbles and a few beers were quaffed, and the bountiful pile of snags (that had to be cooked in daylight so Animule could tell how burnt they were), were eaten before the circle, so as not to get cold.

Slash - Troppo and his assistant High Beam had the splash prepared, the stand-in scribe had his sharpened pencil at the ready and the GM – Mel Adjusted mounted his sturdy pulpit and called the circle to order. He then announced the fallen hound from the previous week, Puki Merah had in fact broken his knee cap and would be out of action for a while may be as long as 6 weeks. Mel Adjusted also commented on how tough he must have been to have driven himself to hospital.

Hares: Animule & Big Bang entered the circle to hear the judgement of the assembled hounds, Sardar for runners, (a bloody great run, he should know as he ran further than the rest; 9.8), Hard One for walkers, (lots of ups and downs; 9.75) – based on weight of numbers and statistical conjuring, acting-scribe thought he heard the average was 9.75.

LTNS: Biggus Dickus, Shifty, GPS, Shadow, Rambling Rose.

Visitors: Jamal (virgin), Mindah.
