Run: 1535 Date: 23/10/2020

33 obedient little hashers headed down to Hilton and everyone parked on the left hand side. Runners were sent off to the left and walkers headed off to the right. There may have been alot happening before the run started but stand in On Sec appeared on the scene just as the run was about to start and missed it all.

We arrived back at base to find DCell horizontal with her dear leg elevated and being prodded and poked by Nurse Slugger, but being a long life battery meant she was up and leading us heartily into our hash songs come circle time. Stand in On Sec has concerns about Beau, he commented that myself and Hogshit were such innocent looking hashers and butter wouldn't melt in our mouths???

GM must have been doing her voice exercises as she called the circle up deafeningly loud (well almost deafeningly) and like the "obedient" little hashers we are, as usual, she had to rouse us a few times to silence.

Speckles was called to the circle to give his report on the run, he said it was excellent, included every hill in the suburb and some lovely dead quiet areas through the cemetery.

Butter Buns stepped forward on behalf of the walkers, she enjoyed the walk and we had no hills, and there were some lovely garden plots and flowers to admire along the way, yes they also went through the cemetery.

Visitors and LTNS: Megawatt, Sybill, 15 Menuts, Replica

General Business: GM had stand in On Sec confused, mixing up the order of the circle, doesn't she know that general business is on the second page of notes, but it's alright I kept up with her.

GM reminded Hashers that everyone is expected to be Hare once a year, we are currently short of hares for a few pending runs.

Also gave out details of the AGPU, but as I know Big bang is putting out a flyer about this I'll leave you to read the flyer for the details, truth be told though, my mind did wander off at this stage and I didn't get the details down.

Then out came the charges:

Hogshit included himself in a charge come accolade, when he called himself, Replica, Phantom and Megawatt in for a down down for trying to wake the dead as they sped through the cemetery.

RA charged Ballwrinkle, naming him as a fine and upstanding Hasher, mmmmm..... for playing peekaboo in the cemetery, doesn't he know its Halloween next week?

Replica charged Speckles for pushing DCell into the hole that injured her leg

But as I said before nothing holds our DCell down for long she was right there amongst the charging hashers, and charged Dead Squid for having something prickly in his crack, and she was showing it to the circle eww....the prickly thing not Dead Squid's crack.

TightArse shared a true story with the circle-of his and Dead Squid's school days and their debuts into the field of acting, long story cut short, Dead Squid was a fairy in the first play, but forgot to change his speaking voice when he was Centurion in the second play.

Whoreda finished off the charges calling White Pointer to the circle, who pleaded guilty before he knew the charge as he knew what he had done. I will hold you in suspense here until we get to the dummy shorts to hear what clumsy antics he got up to.

Zero and other heroes:

Wisecrack	250
Tightarse	450
Animule	650
Sybil	505 bookend

Jokers:

Horny Flasher and Cookie shared their jokes with the circle. Followed by Dead Squid who pulled out his book of 100 best jokes, but trust me there was no way we were going to let him start on those, one joke from Dead Squid is enough.

And onto the Dummy Shorts-BJ and Suka our carry over champions nominated D Cell for injuring herself again and White Pointer who committed the ultimate sin of spilling precious fluid, watering down (or should I say beering down) our snack table. GPS was in Broome sunning himself so missed out on a vote this week. I think voting was a waste of time on this one as we all knew what the outcome was going to be, sorry GPS but you are really going to have to up the ante to take over all time dummy short wearer from White Pointer.

Next week's run: Stand in On Sec was wondering why everyone was looking at her, when she had a light bulb moment and realised it was her run next week, in Rivervale.

BJ lead the circle in the Friday hash song, prompted by many with ffffffffs, and he tried to lead us into some other hash song before changing to the correct fffffff song

Thanks Dead Squid for the lovely food, mushy peas and all
