Hare: Rockbottom

Venue: Kalamunda

“High on the hill met the capra hircus hashers

Lay ee odl lay ee odl lay hee hoo

Loud was the voice of the GM billy

Lay eee odl lay ee odl-oo”

Don't panic folks I'm not going to write the entire rag as a Lonely Goatherd song, because we weren't lonely, we were 37 hardy hashers who ventured up into the Perth Alps of Kalamunda. Our esteemed RA had decided the chance to watch grand final AFL locally meant yes he had a better offer, but he was asked to do his magic, and he assured me he'd stop the rain, but the cost of that would be a bit of cold, which was felt by all, except Beau. The GM welcomed us to Switzerland and our hare, Rockbottom, gave us the low down and high ups of the trail, and we soon all set off to enjoy those lows and highs of Kalamunda. Just digressing a bit here, I can't help mentioning that the Optus Stadium also claimed another of our hashers, D Cell, who I'm sure has never watched a game of AFL in her life and she's still wondering what those men were doing down on that field as they had left their sticks behind, surely it's easier hitting the ball with a stick than kicking it all the time.

Let's get back on track, GM called the circle once were back at base and then he called for the circle again, and then he tried again, he really lacks herding skills; it was business as usual trying to gather his herd together. There was also quite an effort put in to stop the bleating of various hashers, and I could apologise that I actually missed a bit that was said as I couldn't hear over the bleats, but I try not to write the facts anyway so it doesn't really matter, so I will exercise my male rights to not say sorry, as per the words of Mental Disorder, who claimed men never do anything wrong so they don't need to say sorry. Mmmmmmm. But he did need to ask Menstrual Disorder if he was perfect. Oops off track again, Dead Squid was welcomed back to the herd having spent the last 3 months in bed,

Hopping Mad was very concerned behind me as she asked if he'd had a heart attack, I assured her that was not the reason for his weight loss, he wasn't alone in bed. Eeeww too much information, back to his report on the walk, Dead Squid enjoyed the walk as did Phantom who was called upon on behalf of the runners, she found the running very warming and well set out to keep the herd together, but was distracted by Hogshit being slowed down by, and I quote "gas bagging tarts" not mentioning any names like Cowpat and Wenchy.

Then it was time to welcome back all the LTNS, as I mentioned earlier Dead Squid, also Smallgoods, Maid Muffin, Miznomer, Wenchy(that's why she was gassing, she had lots to catch up on), High Beam, Menstrual Disorder, Mini Disorder and Mental Disorder. Mental Disorder said he couldn't come into the circle as he had a little fellow, several hashers mentioned that they'd heard that, but the size of his appendage is not an excuse for not cuming in for a DD.

Then the honourable standin RA, GPS, was introduced, he started off expressing his disappointment that there was a lurking Hammersley hasher that hadn't been introduced to him, Molly Duker and his fellow HHHers vouched to Molly having cum often just not when the stand in RA was around. Then for such a vocal circle that was it for charges, but GM had his Schoolmaster's ears on and Animule was called in and had to write a hundred times on the blackboard "I can't say can't", being as GM is a Math's teacher and not an English one, I think the spelling of this phrase may be different. GM also confessed to memory issues, and blamed his loss of hair on this, Hogshit enlightened the circle to why men lose their hair, naturally this related to having or not having sex, men relate everything to that, oops On Sec's being sexist, but that's alright it's my Rag and "It's my party and I'll cry if I want" even if my cry is politically incorrect.

Rockbottom celebrated her 75th birthday with her fellow hashers, don't often mention age but my goodness, there's 75 and there's 75 and Rockbottom obviously came from good grape stock and is a very good vintage.

General Business

Close To Your Heart Run- being run by West Coast on Tues 28/9 at 6.30 at Britannia Reserve, Britannia Road, Mount Hawthorn, bring your own everything-more details to come. Hammersley will have their drink van there.

And then everyone thought they were Jerry Seinfeld tonight, jokers were flowing left right and centre; Rambling with one about women always being right, Meladjusted with a comparison of a barmaid and proctologist and a ripper politically incorrect one from Maid Muffin about clothing issues in Melbourne, then Tight Arse with his true story of a 16 year old being raped by a very generous 60 year old. And then it was the joke that brought tears to 36 eyes, tears of laughter, as Inspector Gadget farted his way through his tale of the gentleman with a rare condition of contagious farting.

Then it was time to dispute the dummy shorts, GPS stepped forward, he had no nominations, but Meladjusted was nominated by GM due to falsely accusing Hopping Mad for not wearing hash gear, what a dummy listening to what Shadow was saying! Then Crusher topped the dummy award by nominating himself just to get the shorts off GPS and won pants down.

Wenchy was then called on to end the circle with the Friday song, she'd obviously had enough of circle time and sang at triple speed, again the song did not resonate with anything that vaguely sounded melodious. Aaaaaah!

Many thanks to Rockbottom and Crusher for the great location and yummy Moussaka.
