RUN: 1740 Date: 20/12/ 2024 - Hare: Radar - Venue: Thornlie

December 20 is a date of importance throughout the more recent ages. Recently, it was the day Queen Elizabeth became the longest serving monarch ever! The UN declared this an auspicious day to create International Human Solidarity Day - to celebrate our unity in diversity. I thought only a hasher could dream up such an oxymoron. Possibly the hashers in Spain are celebrating National Sangria Day at a drink stop!

This December 20, Friday Hash Christmas celebrations began with a gathering of the large pack of 48, suitably dressed in assorted Christmas attire. The usual drinks were already cold, including a surprise of champagne on ice. Hence, the pack was well hydrated and joints suitably lubricated to start the trail. It was a bit chaotic getting control of the happy crowd to hear the chalk talk by GPS. (He laid trail, so Radar could work her magic in the kitchen). After several false starts, possibly due to the pre run drinks, the happy semi-inebriated colourfully dressed pack set off. Unfortunately, many just went off...boldly going nowhere without on a trail because there were NO FARROWS! This group of walkers needed a shepherd! Like sheep, they happily chatted, following one another blindly around in a circle. Eventually, the runners trail was found by those fleet of foot women: Light My Fire, Biro with horn honking Phantom and Clockwork Orange.

The walkers trail must have been the much the same because powerwalking on the opposite side of the street keeping up was Sybil. Yo followed blowing her whistle. The chattering mob and menfolk followed. We were all together again, even Lofty with Sherbie kept up the meander of just over 4 kilometres before finding the on Home trail!

All the costumes held up. Clockwork Orange accessorised her usual cycling gear with hibiscus printed runners. Mouth Organ gets an accolade for being able to wear one of those overly long printed T shirts and having her very nice legs marry up with the ones printed on back of the Tshirt! Sybil stole Megawatts lights from his signature jacket to light up her skirt! Shadow stood out in the crowd in her fancy pussycat dress.

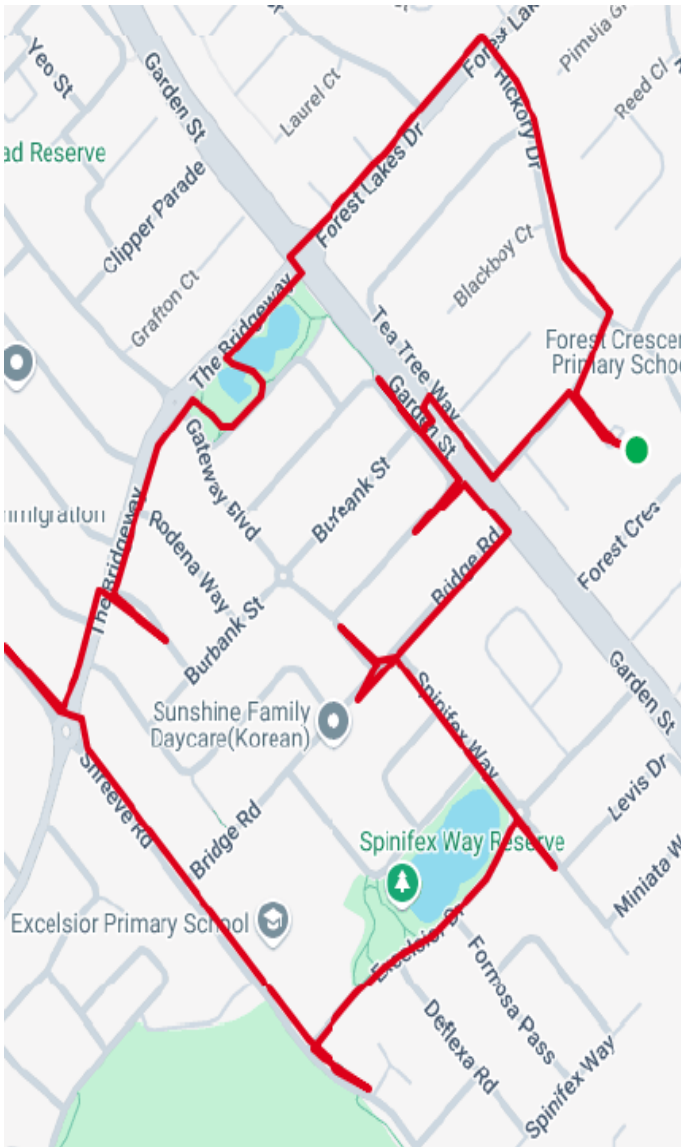

Runners Report

Biro said the runner's trail was good but it was not late enough at night for them to see the Christmas house lights. Score: 10/10.

Walkers Report

Mouth Organ was not happy! They had only gone two blocks before they were walking in a circle! GPS was accused of leading them on one circle jerk after another! She stated he created contortions on pavement! They were circling around for so long; it was dark enough for the walkers to see the Christmas lights! Despite the dizziness, caused from going around and around, she gave it a Score of 9.09/10.00.

Run length 4.2 kms

Birthdays

No birthdays. No cakes...

Visitors and LTNS

Visitors: None

LTNS: Long lost friends came out for Christmas drinks and a brilliant meal! Special invited guests were Whore Da and Doggy Doo, then in came Hot Chilli and Nice Tits followed by two tall men, White Pointer and Long John. In their collective shadow was Cowpat, I almost missed her. Her recent Friday nights have been consumed by singing Christmas carols with her choir.

The Circle was called to order by R.A. Mountain Hawk in her druid attire. We were informed that the Druid New Year begins tomorrow. It was celebrated by her ancestors much like we do at Christmas, as did Odin and the Vikings with much feasting, drinking and merriment. She brought into the Circle the tallest representative from the Northern hemisphere. Representing the longest night of their year was Bullwrinkle. From the Southern Hemisphere, the shortest hasher Butterbuns represented the shortest day.

Here is to the long and the short.

From the annals of Druid Hash History comes the tale of the defiled money box. In olden times, the tabernacles were brought down /the sacristies left in ruins - all because of the defiling of the money box! Tonight, instead of money into the box, a hasher has put counterfeit coins! Bottle caps!!! False Money into the Sacred Box!

Who in Friday H dared to defile our cash box by littering??? A sticky bottle cap was found amongst the coin. Which hasher could not recognise, or see, the red topped rubbish bin only a metre away. The appropriate receptacle for such fake coin/trash? Skippy had sense enough last week to ask where to put his cap.

The RA lead us in song celebrating our very own money changer, Hogshit. "Here's to the money changer....."

The irate RA continued her rant singling out those lazy ones who could not be bothered to do the trail; yet dare to call themselves hashers! They just sat about on their collective lazy arses.

(Remember our reason for being (a hasher) is to circle up together and follow trail!) Those guilty were Pickled Piper, Horny Flasher, Hoarder and Shadow. All had to down down a pagan beverage.

Shadow had to show us her new knees to appease the RA.

Clockwork Orange copped it again for running in a non-hash shirt (Are her repetitive wardrobe compliance failures a ploy to get free piss?) Plus, she did not have either a Crissy costume or hash attire to wear after the run. Poor Clocky is a Bad Bad Girl! Again.

A commotion followed about changing clothes...

Charges from the Floor

WoW or WoE Oh So Many!

Radar and Mel Adjusted were recognised and called out for a drink for hosting us this evening.

Mel Adjusted charged Clockwork Orange for once again not wearing any hash attire! Unfortunately, he missed her hibiscus" new shoes". Or she would have had two drinks. Upheld

De Liva Rants reminded us that GPS broke up with her by hitting her on the back. Now he is trying to get back with her by to getting her into the shower! It appears GPS pushed her into a functioning lawn sprinkler, which then digressed into something to do with showering her with a golden shower? Suck it up GPS.

Sybil charged Ding for not knowing how to call the trail. "HO HO Horse is on NOT ON ON! No defence was made by the accused. He drank his mead.

GPS on Bell Boy and Sheep Shunter for going off together on the trail without any farrows. Gulp it down lads.

Skully charged Mel Adjusted for showing his age. Did he not know it was politically incorrect to be fat shaming in this day and age? He called out to Roxby and complimented her on her weight loss! The problem: Skully's Mum, Roxby, was not at the Christmas run! "Cowpat in no way resembles my mother"!!

Lofty offered to recommend Mel to a good optometrist.

Mel Adjusted tried to reverse the charge saying Cowpat was not offended. Charge upheld.

Mental Disorder charged Hopping Mad after overhearing her conversation with Inspector Gadget. Gadget begged her to set the Chinese New Year's Run. Given the date, she excused herself saying every CNY she has to go to her Dad because he might die. She has been going back for CNY for three years now. SO, you see she must go back to Hong Kong for Chinese New Year. Queried by Mental how could she possibly know he planned to die over the Chinese New Year? Hopping Mad had her drink. The Inspector still has no hare...

Tigtarse charged Shadow for getting her knees fixed just so she could kneel and join the Albo-Kneeze Labour Party!

Troppo quipped she should have a Gin Charmers for her down-down!

Hogshit pointed out that there were a lot of impersonators for the Dummy Shorts. Since he could not charge everyone wearing silly shorts, he required a Replicar to receive the drink for the group. Replicar had on plain navy-blue shorts, now his very own "Dummy Shorts".

Zero Heroes

General Business

The GM Megawatt and Hogshit thanked everyone for their donations tonight; to our charity BACK ON TRACK. Hash Cash reports members raised $359. The GM rounded it up to $700.

Inspector Gadget has some spare Friday Hash Annuals to give out.

As Trail master Gadget requested hares for February 2025 and beyond!

Jokers

None

Dummy Shorts

Possibly GPS or did D.I.Y carry over? I could not hear even with my replacement Miracle Ear.

Points of Hash Etiquette

Please sign the Big Red Book

Please do not put your bottle caps in the cash drinks box. It just makes unnecessary work for the someone that must count the money. Help out poor Hogshit!

If you can assist getting the eskies, tables etc. in or out of the van, hop in and help!

Song

The closing order of the circle was changed by the RA. MountainHawk reminded us that our Anglo-Saxons ancestors, at this time of year, used to sing songs at the end of the night to ward off evil spirits! Mountain Hawk led us in a frightful rendition of "We Wish You a Merry Christmas!" Evil spirits were not to be found as naughty spirits flew away covering their ears. Butter Buns joyfully led us out in our club song
