RUN: 1749 - Date: 28/02/2025 - Hare: Dynamo – Cohare:- Hardcase- Venue: Glengarry Park, Duncraig- Runner Numbers: 39

Runner's Trail Length: Hogshit measured 7.21 kilometres

Walker's Trail Length: less than the runners

Runners Report

Biro is definitely the GM' s favourite for reporting on the trail. Is this part of the Horn's job description? Or is our GM unable to see farther out into the Circle because of his brilliant jacket? As always, Biro is smiling and laughing while describing her version of the trail. Evidently the trail was not long enough for this lass. She created her own deviation to make a great trail even longer. Bulldust was obviously rapt in the fabulous trail that he did it twice! What an accolade!

Score: 10 out of 10! Well done Dynamo!

Walkers Report

Mel Adjusted stepped into the lime light to give a critique of the walker's trail. The walkers found lots of hills! What a surprise, being so close to the Mitchell Freeway I thought all hills would have been bulldozed flat for on/off ramps and housing infill. Did I mention lots of hills? There were also lots of false trails. Every walker got a turn to "check it out." I bet that caused a large amount of grizzling. We all know the walkers do not do false trails except under duress! I can only surmise that it was dear Mel Adjusted that got caught checking out on the longest super long falsie. I hope the rest of the pack was sucked in, too. Evidently there was a brilliant drink stop to make up for all the checks and false trails. Overall, a very good trail.

Score: 10 out of 10 !

The Circle

I am sorry we were in Bhutan for the Druk Hash and missed last week's debacle. The RA stepped out from the shadows to regale us of a tale of woe. She required a cast of three, including a stand in, Gadget, for Ding Hogshitt as himself and Biro as the panicking, desperate housewife. This tale was sung to the tune of a very old Hash favourite of the Jakarta H3, "Barnacle Bill the Sailor". I have not heard that one since the early 1990's! "Who's that knocking at my roller door?" Unlucky last in, Ding arrived at the Hoggett's abode to find the roller door down, doors locked, and no way to ingress to the frivolity of the Circle inside, behind the closed door. Ding tried calling out, banging the roller door, rang all the hash numbers in his cell phone all to no avail. Ding should have remembered, no phones on in the Circle.

If I understood correctly, Ding then had a dummy spit, split the scene for home? True or false? He surely would not leave his beloved Biro behind, would he?

At his point in the Circle, the RA was rudely interrupted by none other than Cookie. How could Cookie cause chaos? She never says "Boo" or talks in the Circle. Actions do speak louder than words! In Cookie's defence, I understand how a full drink can move of its own accord. On the nibbles table Cookie's often forgotten wine glass dodged its owner's hand. A vain attempt was made to catch the tumbling vessel. Alas, it was rolling and spilling its port and cola all over the BIG RED BOOK!

What sacrilege! What a waste of a perfectly good drink!

Hopping Mad "hopped" to the rescue of our sacred book! Sweeping it up, lovingly wiping it off, commented at least it was a red beverage...Accolade to Hopping Mad for cleaning up the mess on the nibbles table.

Cookie was awarded the big red Bad Girl hat and the Bad Girl Song by our song mistress, while our hero, Hopping Mad, in the happy red chef's bonnet got the Down Down Song.

Mountain Hawk changed the subject and the direction of the Circle.

She wanted Friday hashers to remember that today was a very important day Diversity, Eccentricity, or was that Equality? and Inclusion. The LBGTUQI community was being celebrated in Sydney tomorrow night with a Mardi Gras Parade!

She called out for representatives of the heterosexual community to step forward. Clockwork Orange for the real women/females; Tigtarse for the men in our midst. The national anthem of the gay world is "The YMCA" which the pack sang for their down-down song.

Charges from the Floor

Mel Adjusted charged Hopping Mad for lack of a sense of direction. Evidently, the driveway into the carpark eluded the lady in her large white ute. In disgust, she mounted the curb (just because she could in a large ute) parked on the verge where no parking is allowed. Ranger danger! Down down!

If I had known Hopping Mad was going to be at this week's run, I would have divested my dining table of her vile green expandible silicone bowl. It is still in Yo's Lost Property

Tigtarse had some statistics for the group. He called out Ballwrinkle, because they are approximately the same height. Tigtarse commented that he was taller than Ballwrinkle for the first twenty years of his life. Hmm. This was a bit more cerebral than the hash is used to...

Shadow ran out into the Circle to loudly charge Buttered Buns for whining the Circle was going on way too long. Horny Flasher chose the Flat Chested Song for her carpooling mate.

The RA had words of wisdom. She reminded us to be kind to our children because they will be the ones that will choose the nursing home we were going to be placed in!

Chitter chatter where are the Ears? I have heard it on the grapevine they got pinched !

General Business

Birthdays

Clockwork Orange (of undetermined age) and whining about lack of champagne to celebrate Skully (mere lass of 23) Accolade for bringing the great cake to the younger one!

LTNS

Lofty and Yo Adrian back from hashing OS, Bulldust and De Iva Rants were they off somewhere together? Note: That woman has a bit of a reputation for picking up hashmen....

Mouth Organ is owed her 300 Run Cloth Badge. Unfortunately, the On Sec forget to pass on the Badges Box when she went galivanting about OS getting food poisoning. Penance.

Dummy Shorts

Quite a large group of contenders even without GPS.

Mental Disorder current wearer of the bespoke shorts, wanted to have a Harriette get into his pants. As always, there were no takers. He had no one to nominate.

Shadow was like a bad dog after Buttered Buns. She was nominated for her comments about the length of the Circle.

Cookie was nominated by? for her spectacular spillage all over the book. (Note: The Book has been cleaned of all the evidence)

Mel Adjusted thought Hopping Mad was deserving because of her inability to park properly

Mental on Lofty for going to the clinic with Yo in Singapore instead of the business class lounge.

Buttered Buns won the shout off Buttered side down! She reluctantly accepted the unwashed garment.

Jokers

Inspector Gadget cannot leave his Asian days of hashing and ladies of the night in the past. It appears he forgot to dial 9 to get an outside line when seeking a companion for his sexual pleasures.

DeLiva Rants something about the two boxers. who do not have sex that night because they must fight the next day.

Troppo sorry mate. I missed your reading.

Tightarse a tale of the nun who got out on the wrong side of the bed and was given away by her shoes.

Skully told us about the first two Irish gentlemen: Patrick Fitzgerald and Fitzgerald Patrick.

General Business

A bit of history about the Blue Dress Run on Tuesday

This run was started in memory of a Perth Harriette and long-time Friday Hasher, Carole “Waddles” Waddell. If she was not at Friday Run #1 (?) she rocked up the next week! This lovely lady lost her battle with Motor Neuron Disease many years ago. She attended the Harriette’s trails pushed in her wheelchair by Shorty until she could no longer participate. I would encourage as many Friday Hashers as possible to join the Perth Harriettes at tonight’s run in Waddles memory – to show their support of the Motor Neuron Foundation. (Note: Tonight’s hare is Friday’s own Cowpat assisted by Blowfly.) There is a separate trail for the Walkers approximately 4 kilometres. The Runner’s trail is longer encompassing more of the scenic and historic points found in the vicinity.

Song

Shadow slowed down long enough to take us out in song

Points of Hash Etiquette

1. Leave parking for Troppo & Phantom’s van closest to the venue. Second spot closest to venue should be saved for Mental Disorder.
2. Please avoid spillage when signing the Big Red Book
