RUN: 1753 - Date: 28/03/2025 - Hare: Megawatt – Co-Hare:- Sybil- Venue: The GM's Place - Crawley

Run Report by D Liva Rants – “ many thanks Yo”

Run 1753

Hare-Our esteemed GM Megawatt

Around the pool at Park Avenue in Crawley

With a sizeable lump of our faithful Friday Hashers enjoying a better offer in Fremantle Prison, well maybe not in jail, but certainly living it up with Hashers from all corners of the country within the stone walls that once housed Western Australia's lawbreakers, Friday Hash was bereft of numbers. 23 Hashers had nothing better to do than turn up to follow farrows and enjoy the humidity, that the Bureau of Meteorology keeps throwing at us, around the lovely suburb of Crawley. The hare had to put his teeth in as he tried to explain the run was a B plan run, or maybe a Plan B run. The run was so well marked that the Kings Park rangers decided our life was too easy and they erased a whole section of the farrows. We used our best tracking skills by pushing numbers on our mobile phones to summon the hare, who came running up the road to rescue us.

Ding suggested the stand in On Sec make up lies for the Rag but why make up lies when the truth is so much more entertaining. Ding, Replica and Dynamo did a sterling job marking off all the checks and false trails, being the only runners of the night. But two of these runners decided they'd covered enough ground doing all the checks, so when the farrows went right for runners and left for walkers, guess who ran the walkers' trail. A hint: it wasn't Dynamo! Dynamo and Ballwrinkle were called upon to rate the night's efforts.

Two LTNS joined us for the night's frivolities, Roller and Rubber Ducky. And three zero heroes were given a down down and given a suggestion to get a life. Hardcase, Megawatt and Sir Fumbles, with Mouth Organ joining them as she was the only bookend of the night. Tight Arse and White Pointer were honoured with their engraved mugs for previously having run double zero runs.

The RA blasphemed as she started the charges, she thought it was hardly worth getting into costume for such a small circle, oh great RA are we not worthy of your efforts? However, not only did she get into costume she, along with Cookie, entertained us with her dulcet tunes. And the charges flowed. Roller was first up charged with bringing the Indonesian heatwave with her. Shadow and Highbeam were brought in as proxies for all cat lovers, as it was International Cat lovers' day.

RA challenged the On Sec's spelling skill by announcing it was also the international day for Triglycerides (yes, I had to look it up). Dynamo was called forth as she looks after her triglycerides, while Inspector Gadget was called in for not looking after his triglycerides. Now that I've learnt how to spell it, I'll just keep using the word.

An accolade was given to all the stand ins, yours truly, Pickled Piper, Cookie and Shadow. Shadow took her roles (Hash Cash and Assistant Piss Pourer) very seriously, trying to get the circle started early and then growling at everyone to take their hats off before GM announced the Song.

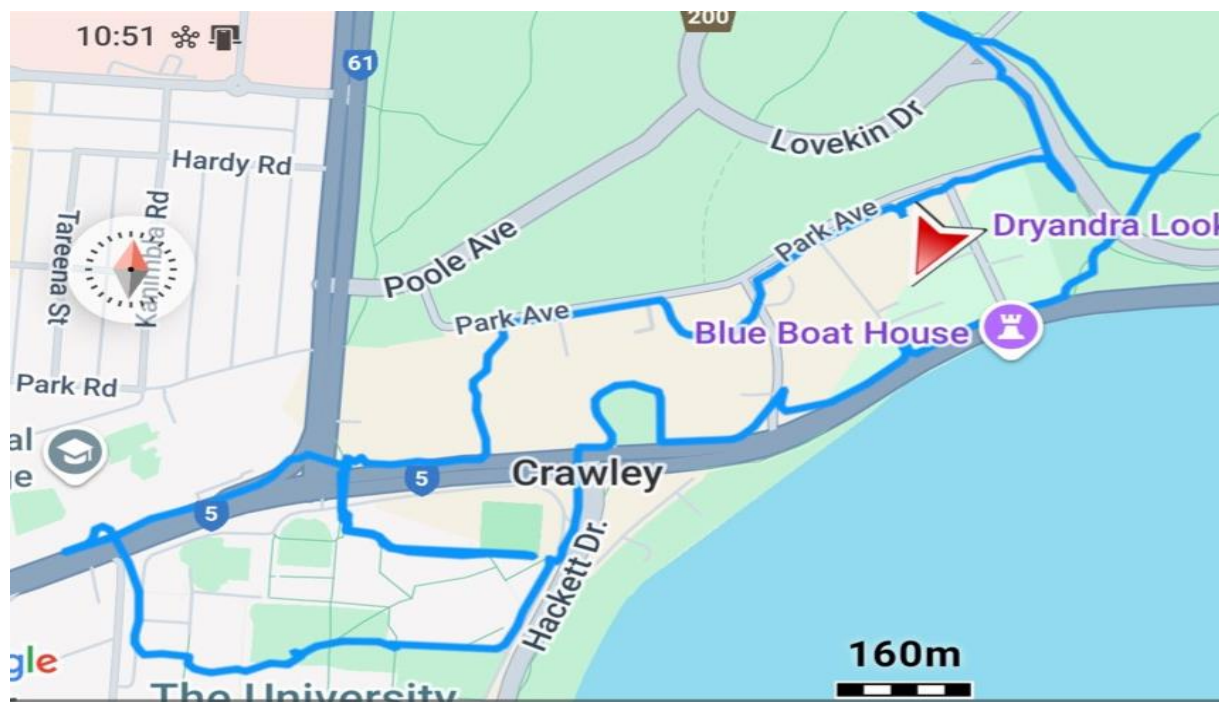

D livra rants charged Rubber Ducky for believing his dangly bits would get caught on the low chain. Tightarse charged Animule for overlooking him as the joker of the family, he is now passing his jokes onto the boss, Mountain Hawk.

All hashers had done their business prior, so there was no general business to discuss. It was a quick move onto the birthday boy, Hardcase, who provided a lovely mud cake.

D livra rants was missing Troppo, so she read her joke about 7 kinds of sex from her phone, Inspector Gadget told one about a dentist.

Shadow desperately tried to hand on the dummy shorts that she forgot to wear at the run, in fact she even forgot that she was dummy from last week, claiming Sir Fumbles had them. So, no matter how hard she tried to hand them over to Megawatt, (whoops he is the GM), so Sybil was called in for missing farrows, and Inspector Gadget was proxy for the ranger, the masses all agreed that the dummy shorts were a carryover.

As Shadow was so anxious to take over calling the Friday song for the GM, she was nominated to start the Friday anthem.

Points of Hash Etiquette and Other News

1. Leave parking for Troppo & Phantom's van closest to the venue. Second spot closest to venue should be saved for Mental Disorder.
2. Update on Mental Disorder's surgery -Date 3 April 2025 at SJOG Mount Lawley (formerly St Anne's Mercy Hospital).
