Inspector Gadget here standing in for your Hon Sec Yo Adrian who with Lofty is about to take off on adventures offshore. Please send any complaints on a post card to PO Box 69, Perth, WA.

The drive out to where GPS hangs out at the Piara Waters Lifestyle Resort proved to be less than a chore than I was expecting given that it was supposed to be Friday afternoon/evening rush hour traffic. Maybe something to do with it still being school holidays? I had heeded the request to carpool and had brought along your RA Mountain Hawk and her other half Tightarse in the car with me and I'd allowed enough time not to be late, but there was next to no traffic, and we were left outside the locked gates waiting for GPS to open up and let us in. On the other side we were then met by Sir Fumbles who was the Parking Attendant for the night. Who said that he's not multi-talented?... We were down on numbers this week, maybe people were still recovering from the open bar of last week and the great food served up at the Himalayan Restaurant, or maybe our fellow Hashers thought it was too far out and that the travel time might be too much. What a shame that they missed out.

The Clubhouse was our setting out the back where we had full use of everything there with no one else to worry about. Radar set up shop to take everyone's money as your fellow Hashers turned up. Seven o'clock soon arrived and your GM Megawatt called for everyone to form a circle where GPS was invited to give his run directions with a Walkers Trail and a Runners Trail that detoured off and away. The good news was that there would be a Drink Stop, which as always brought some cheers. Horns sounded and off we all went.

Gadget and Mel Adjusted started off by adopting their usual spots at the rear of the run but soon realised that the Walkers in front of them had missed some Farrows marked with a W and an R with the Runners being sent off to the right and a whole bunch of Walkers following them. Suddenly Gadget and Mel Adjusted found themselves at the front of the run. Walkers doubled back exclaiming that they couldn't believe who was leading the way... As we got closer to the magic hour, the Drink Stop appeared on the other side of Nicholson Road at the house of GPS's sons place where we had the option of either a drink of Port or a Cherry Brandy (I think) with lemonade or straight up. From there it was a relatively short walk around the corner and back to the Old Folks Home...

Wasn't long before the GM dragged everyone away from the Nibbles Table to form a Circle and get things started. Megawatt called in Replicar to comment on the run on behalf of the Runners. Repi thought that it was a great Walk and Run too. He said that Bulldust did all the false trails and rated the run as a 9.25. Next in to comment on behalf of the Walkers was Mel Adjusted. He commented on how the Walkers had stuffed up as mentioned earlier losing the Walkers trail and getting stuck behind the Runners on their trail before realising the error of their ways and rejoining their intended trail. Good run scoring as a 9/10.

Two special visitors were called into the Circle and acknowledged, being a former GM Air Supply and Mango. It had been quite a few years since they had both been out with the FH3. They didn't need to be shown how to do a Down Down. Welcome back to you both and we hope to see you again soon. Don't be strangers for so long, yeh...

The Circle was handed over to the RA Mountain Hawk who brought in a variety of Hashers for various misdemeanours, starting with Cookie who had informed us that the day was International Egg Day. Her DD song was an adaptation of the Humpty Dumpty song. Mel Adjusted commented something about eggs being gratis over east! To which he got a DD. The Harvest Moon was brought into the discussion and about it being covered by clouds... Then Shadow was brought in for being Moon Struck and the song "Shine on Harvest Moon" was sung prior to her DD whilst she mooned us with her pants on (thank goodness). Next the RA told us about it being National Homeless Day invented in the UK and open to everyone to go there and stay in hotels at the governments expense... Representing the homeless was White Pointer who was given the song "Show me the way to go home". National Porridge Day was next which was connected to Goldilocks for which Air Supply and Cow Pat were brought in as representatives of people with golden hair whilst the Bimbo song was sung. Last but not least was a story about a 9,000 year old vessel for which Replicar was brought in for a DD along with the Piss Pourers to celebrate everything to do with drinking whilst the Si Si Senora song was belted out.

Charges from the Circle. First in was Mel Adjusted who charged the Walkers for following the Runners on the wrong trail He called in Mountain Hawk and Slugger to represent the lost Walkers. Then the RA called in Cow Pat for being bossy (?). Next was Tigtarse calling in Air Supply for an historical charge dating back to his 60th Birthday (can anyone remember that far back?). Something to do with his having had a colonoscopy and had had his rear passage cleaned out proving that he wasn't full of shit...(really...). The RA called in the Hon Sec for something that he didn't write down, so it couldn't have been important... The GM called in Bulldust as a stand in Security Guard. Mango had his turn calling in GPS for riding around on his bicycle during the run and Animule for short cutting (No, not our Animule...) and taking Mango up a back passage, which led to everyone singing the Hammersley Hash song about them taking it up the arse,,, Last charge was from Sybil against Air Supply and Mango for sex on the Hash (really, did I miss something?) but they were able to reverse the charge. Very clever those two...

General Business. Gadget asked for a show of hands for those who had invested money with Mental Disorder to buy a Lottery Ticket. Gadget explained that the Power Ball of $50M was won by two tickets, one in the NT and the other here in Perth. Everyone noticed that Mental Disorder wasn't at the Hash on Friday night and wondered if we had won and he skipped town... Nope, our total winnings were $200. The question was asked do they want to cash in, or in horse racing speak, let it ride. The overwhelming decision was to let it ride. The money will go on the next half decent Power Ball. Slugger stepped in with an announcement for Hashers thinking of buying a warm sleeveless body vest. She has four orders but needs another two to make the minimum order of six. Don't be shy and let Habberdash know ASAP if you would like to place an order for one (or two).

Bookends & Zero Heroes

ZERO HEROES		BOOK ENDS
Troppo 1560 - Cookie 1330 – Shadow 690	Tightarse 620 Bulldust 110	Slugger 686

There were no birthdays this week, so no cake (boo hoo)

Jokers – First in was Troppo who told us about someone going to Heaven with a bag and a pillowcase full of cash. Next was Gadget telling us about an uncle who was a night watchman with two wooden legs and when the factory went up in flames the fire brigade was able to put the fire out, but his uncle was burnt to the ground... GPS then told us about going to see a doctor about his arse being full of apple pie and the doctor telling him its okay, he has some cream (!!). Mango told us about his new girlfriend, and as it was winter he had cold hands, so she said to put them between her legs and then something about him having cold ears...

Dummy Shorts: Currently held by Bulldust. Nominations were requested and the only suggestion was Radar because of a misplaced jacket. It went to the vote and the overwhelming decision was that they stay with Bulldust as a carry over. So Bulldust it was.

Hash Hymn - Hats Off as Shadow led us in a rousing version of the FH3 Club Song.

The evenings meal put on by GPS was a large pot of soup and hot dogs with buns.
