

Everyone was back within the hour having been provided with Port and Lemonade by Repicar at the Drinks Stop just before getting back to the Run Site where the Nibbles Table soon got stocked up waiting for things to get underway. It wasn't long before Megawatt called for circle to be formed so he could get the run discussions underway with Repi front and centre self-proclaiming that the run was exceptional. Biro was invited to give a Runners perspective and her thoughts on the run. She agreed with Repi's thoughts on the run saying that Bulldust did all the Falsies and commenting on the added excitement of the trail being in the middle of a road accident where two cars came together at a crossroads. All of the neighbours were on the street along with tow trucks, police cars, the fire brigade and an ambulance.

Hopefully no one was seriously injured. But it was quite a spectacle. Biro rated the run as 10/10. White Pointer came into the Circle to represent the Walkers. He thought that the run was well laid with lots of Farrows, which I couldn't disagree with and he scored the run at 9.98

Visitors joining us this week was Robynnann from Sydney whose first Hash Runs were in Kota Kinabalu, East Malaysia. She got her run directions from our website and was looked after by D Liva Rants, thank you DLR.

LTNS. Saw the return of our long missing Clockwork Orange. And yes, she arrived on her bicycle. She couldn't recall how long she had been gone and was given the big red hat and a chorus of "She's a Bad Girl" prior to her Down Down.

The RA Mountain Hawk took over the Circle and commented on what a strange shape the Circle was, more of a semi-circle, I think. MH mentioned that this week is the Indian Festival of Lights which in India are commemorated by lots of fireworks. GPS was called in to representative all pyromaniacs and take a DD. The RA told us how important it is to go to a good school and shared a story about the slow Sloth and something about the Seven Deadly Sins. At this point she called in Mental Disorder for doing SFA (hands up doesn't know what this means...). It was an intro for everyone else who works and Hashes, Radar was brought in as a fine example of someone who does both (work & Hash) and her song was Dolly Parton's "Working 9-5". The RA then slipped in an early joke about laziness and a bottle of red wine... Last mention was that it's International Pasta Day and to represent the queens of pasta Sybil was brought in to be sang "The Meatball song".

Charges from the Floor were started by Ding being targeted as it was claimed that he was late because he didn't hear the bell (Ding...). There was an accolade for the two Piss Pourers who had an efficient system going to serve the Down Down drinks and collect the empty cups, on in Roxby and Phantom. Tightarse called in Clockwork Orange for not telling us where she had been for the last so many months. With people better than us D Liva Rants exclaimed (Hon Sec note – I can't believe that...). Last Charge was from Phantom against Sybil who on the run had claimed that a twig looked like a lizard...

General Business:

At this point the GM took the Circle back under his wing to ask if there were any birthdays? No, zip, nada, zilch was the reply, which meant no cake (boo, hiss, suck).

Mental Disorder told us that the Lottery draw was a dud with only $40 coming back. Another time I guess...

Haberdash is still looking for two more orders for new Hash Vests so that she can place a new order for the minimum of six vests. She also asked for any interest to order a Bucket Hat with Hash Logo, price $25. No other details at this stage. Please get in touch with Slugger on all matters involving Haberdash items.

Bookends. There were no Zero Heros tonight, But quite a few Book Ends. On In Troppo 1511; Cookie 1331; Sir Fumbles 959; Bulldust 111; Roxby 77: Congrats to all and a Down Down.

Jokers: This week were led off by the inimitable Troppo who gave us a series of one liners involving a radio commercial for the Thirsty Camel, a scarecrow and a wife next door. Radar was next who told us about two female friends who were in competition over gifts from their husbands over their babies. Gadget told us about a golfer visiting a new club and being offered food and other things by an attractive server. D Liva Rants wrapped up with a story about an eagle who kept flying down and rogering everything on the ground and being told that they liked it until a duck turned out to be a drake who told the eagle he's made a mistake...

Dummy Shorts. Buldust was hoping to break the Hash record of keeping them for the longest period of time. But the GM insisted that others be considered for the honour. First off the blocks was Clockwork Orange for not telling us where she had been. Next was Sybil for mistaking a Twig for a lizard, then Slugger for something that was so insignificant that I don't recall what it was! The usual round of applause decided the outcome, and it was Clockwork Orange by a mile. In climbing into the Dummy Shorts, she took a different approach getting both legs into one hole... It'll be interesting to see if she runs in them like that next week. Watch this space...

Song - Hats Off as Biro led us in the Club Song.

Dinner tonight was a stack of Pizza boxes of various toppings. Thank you Replicar.
